

The Emil Racoviță Institute of Speleology is hiring a PhD student in environmental science

We are looking for a PhD student to study pollen and non-pollen palynomorphs in lake sediments and speleothems with the aim of reconstructing past environmental change within the ECHOES project (<https://iser.ro/echoes/>).

Organization/Company: Emil Racoviță Institute of Speleology

Research Field: Environmental Science › Earth Science

Researcher Profile: First Stage Researcher (R1), years of Research Experience: 1 - 4

Application Deadline: 02/07/2022 20:00 - Europe/Athens

Location: Romania › Bucharest

Type of Contract: Temporary

Job Status: Part-Time

Hours Per Week: 5

Offer Starting Date: 15/07/2022

Contact: virgil.dragusin@iser.ro

Required Education Level

Environmental Science: Master Degree Or Equivalent

Biological Sciences: Master Degree Or Equivalent

Geosciences: Master Degree Or Equivalent

Required Languages: Romanian: Good/English: Good

Skills/Qualifications

The candidate should demonstrate skills in laboratory preparation of sediment samples, especially in pollen extraction from sediments.

Specific Requirements

As the candidate will have to retrieve samples from caves, they have to demonstrate abilities in working in underground environments. They have to perform field work demanding physical fitness, working in low light, and small spaces.